What is Regulation E?

Regulation E protects individual consumers using electronic funds transfers (EFT). Non-consumer accounts are not protected by Regulation E.

What is an EFT?

An EFT is any transfer of funds that is initiated through an electronic terminal, telephone, computer, or magnetic tape for the purpose of ordering, instructing, or authorizing a financial institution to debit or credit a consumer's account. The term includes but is not limited to:

- Point of sale transfers
- Automated teller machine transfers
- Direct deposits or withdrawals of funds
- Transfers initiated by telephone
- Transfers resulting from debit card transactions, whether or not initiated through an electronic terminal
- Transfers initiated through Internet Banking and Bill Pay.

How does Regulation E apply to a consumer using Online Banking and/or Bill Pay?

Regulation E is a consumer protection law for accounts such as checking or savings, established primarily for personal, family, or household purposes. Non-consumer accounts, such as Corporation, Trust, Partnerships, LLCs, etc., are excluded from coverage. Regulation E provides consumers a means to notify their financial institution that an EFT has been made without their permission. If you are unsure if your account is protected by Regulation E contact us at the information listed above.

What protections are provided to consumers under Regulation E for consumers who use Online Banking and/or Bill Pay?

If you believe an unauthorized EFT has been made to your account, contact us immediately. If you notify us within two business days after you learn of the unauthorized transaction the most you can lose is $50. Failure to notify the bank within two business days may result in losses up to $500.

No Liability Limit

Unlimited loss to a consumer account can occur if your periodic statement you receive reflects transfers you did not make, including those made by card, code, or other means, and you do not report the unauthorized transfer to the bank within sixty (60) days after the statement was mailed, and the loss could have been avoided if you had given timely notice. If you do not tell us within sixty (60) days after the statement was transmitted to you, you may not receive back any money you lost after the sixty days, and therefore, you could lose all the money in your account (plus your maximum overdraft line of credit, if applicable).

How does Regulation E apply to a non-consumer using Online Banking and/or Bill Pay?

A non-consumer using Online Banking and/or Bill Pay is not protected under Regulation E. Because the customer is not protected by Regulation E special consideration should be made by the customer to review the controls in place to ensure that they are commensurate of the risk level that the customer is willing to accept.

What precautions should a non-consumer take because they are not protected by Regulation E?

As a non-consumer customer you should perform a risk assessment and periodically evaluate the controls you have in place. The risk assessment should be used to determine the risk level associated with any Internet activities you perform and any controls in place to mitigate these risks.
